Re: Communist Infiltration of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC)
Internal Security - C

A confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, learned on May 13, 1966, that Clarence Jones, on that date, was in contact with Andrew Young, Executive Director of the SCLC, concerning a statement from Martin Luther King for the Voters Peace March on Washington, D.C., on May 15, 1966, protesting the war in Vietnam. Jones said the co-chairmen of the march were Norman Thomas and William Coffin of Yale University and that he had in mind a letter or statement from King to them which would be essentially a restatement of "the SCLC resolution." Jones stated that he wanted King's authorization to do it, that he would say nothing new, just regrets that King could not attend and add the SCLC resolution. Young agreed and felt this would be acceptable. He said he would let Jones know if it was not.

"The New York Times", April 14, 1966, page 1, column 8, contained an article on a resolution adopted at an Executive Board meeting of the SCLC in Miami, Florida. The article stated that the SCLC, headed by King, "called on the Johnson Administration to abandon the ruling military junta of South Vietnam and consider withdrawing from the country altogether."

A confidential source learned on May 14, 1966, that on that date, Andrew Young agreed to Jones preparing a letter which would be essentially the official SCLC statement with a few omissions of material no longer appropriate because of changes in United States policy. The source advised that Jones did prepare a statement addressed to Norman Thomas and the Reverend (William) Coffin which was signed by Martin Luther King, Jr. This statement expressed King's regrets at not being able to be present with them and contained the SCLC's position on Vietnam. The statement contained in part, the following:

"American policy has become imprisoned in the destiny of the military oligarchy." Not only the Viet Cong, but Buddhists, Catholics and students in Vietnam have expressed contempt for the government we are blindly supporting in Vietnam. The continuation of this war has curtailed Domestic Welfare programs in this country causing the poor, whites and Negroes to bear the heaviest burden both at home and on the war front.

The principle of dissent has also been affected because of efforts to characterize opposition to the war as disloyal.

"As one committed to non-violence I believe the war must be condemned on the ground that war is not the way to solve social problems.....I believe the moment is now opportune and the need urgent to reassess our position and seriously examine the wisdom of prompt withdrawal. Our government must seriously and sincerely seek free elections and pledge to abide by the results."

King Urges Negroes To Ballot Box March

*United Vote Is Backed
To Consolidate Gains*

By WILLIAM E. RONE JR.,
Governmental Affairs Editor

KINGSTREE—The Rev. Martin Luther King called Sunday for a "march on the ballot boxes" by South Carolina Negroes this year to nail down gains in the civil rights field.

Speaking at a pre-election rally here, the president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference urged Negroes to vote "unitedly." He added, "We'll get further together than apart."

The mass meeting—about 5,000 attended—was aimed at promoting the candidacies of Negroes running for office in Williamsburg County, as well as others running in other counties.

"We will never fully enjoy our God-given rights until we use the right to vote creatively," King continued.

"This is a movement when Ph. D's and No D's come together." He said all religious and economic groups must stand together.

"This is the second Reconstruction. To consolidate the gains we have made (in civil rights), we must use our voting power and use it wisely."

King, perhaps the No. 1 spokesman of the Negro civil rights movement, urged his audience to do more than "just clap your hands, give loud cheers and assemble in crowds. You must get every Negro registered to vote."

☐ Being Investigated

100-10667

The crowd, estimated by the press in the neighborhood of 5,000, received the Atlanta minister enthusiastically, even emotionally. Generally well-dressed and well-mannered, it came from many parts of the state and there was a heavy representation of South Carolina's Negro elite.

King himself called the crowd "gigantic" and at one point said it seemed to number 10,000.

When he arrived and after he concluded his speech, scores pressed forward, swamping the press area, to touch his hand.

Since the Ku Klux Klan has been somewhat active in Williamsburg County, there were some fears of violence. The Tomlinson High School athletic field was ringed by law officers; particularly highway patrolmen. No incidents, however, were reported.

As his theme, King used a Victor Hugo quotation: "Nothing is more powerful than an idea whose time has come."

He said the Negro has the idea of human dignity and that from Kenya to Kingstree, he wants freedom.

The civil rights leader recited advances in the field. He called the 1954 desegregation decision the legal turning point of the movement.

That decision, he said, was based on a dissenting opinion filed in South Carolina's Summerton school case by former U. S. District Judge J. Waltes Waring of Charleston.

"Now we have moved from the wilderness of 'separate-but-equal' to the promised land of integration," he said.

The Montgomery, Ala., bus boycott of 1955, King said, was the psychological turning point of the movement. It was during the bus boycott that King first achieved prominence.

He traced the lunch counter sit-ins, the so-called Freedom rides of 1961 and the Birmingham riots of 1963. Noting the water hoses used against demonstrators there, he said, "... There was a fire in Birmingham but water couldn't put out."

He said the 1964 Civil Rights Act was a tribute to the late President Kennedy and to the efforts of the Negro people.

The Voter Rights Act of 1965, he claimed, was a result of the "suffering in Selma" — a reference to the demonstrations and civil rights marches in that area of Alabama.

He recalled that during the post-Civil War Reconstruction era, South Carolina had sent Negroes to the state legislature and to Congress.

"My plea is — let us unite and again send to the state legislature the marvelous candidates who are running. We can again send dedicated competent black men and women... On that glad day in June, let us march to the ballot boxes." (The Democratic primary is June 14.)

"Later, in a brief interview, King said it was difficult to compare South Carolina's civil rights advances with other Southern states. "South Carolina has made progress but it still has a long way to go."

The crowd began arriving more than three hours before King's appearance. A steady rain drenched it before the program began. A handful of whites was seen in the gathering.

The long warm-up period included speeches by Palmetto rights leaders, as well as the singing of hymns and freedom songs.

Dr. C. H. Thomas, head of the Voter Education Project, reported there are now 168,000 Negroes registered in the state but 202,000 remain off the rolls. He urged they be registered so they can vote June 14.

Billy S. Fleming of Manning, an NAACP leader, made four appearances at the microphones to plead for contributions to support Negro candidates.

He took the occasion to blast House Speaker Solomon Blatt for the anti-compulsory education speech he made in March in the House.

"It's a crying shame," said Fleming, "when a member of a minority race, Sol Blatt, utters such disgraceful utterances about Negro children. I hope Mrs. Barfield will teach him a lesson. She'll get a part of this money. Give more."

(Mrs. O'Bertha Barfield, who was on the platform, is running against Blatt in Barnwell County.)

Fleming's fourth and final money appeal came after King had arrived. "It'll be a shame if we don't raise $10,000 with Dr. King here," he shouted.

King was introduced by Mrs. Alice N. Spearman, white executive director of the S.C. Council on Human Relations. She said she knows of no man "who so typifies the yearnings of the human heart as Dr. Martin Luther King."

She and Richard Miles, Voter Education Project executive secretary, were the only whites on the platform. Others on the platform were James T. McCain of Sumter, the state's top CORE representative; Ben Mack of Columbia, executive secretary of the South Carolina branch of King's SCLC; Matthew J. Perry, NAACP counsel, and several Negro candidates.

Columbia, S. C., Tuesday, May 10, 1966

Trouble-Making King

THE PROGRESS toward race relations and Negro advancement in South Carolina has been due in large part to the absence of outside agitators — black or white.

South Carolinians of both races have been hammering out their new educational, economic, and social adjustments in relative calm. Distasteful as it has been for most white citizens, they have complied with the vindictive Voter Rights Act by which the Johnson administration is seeking to herd illiterate Negroes to the polls.

In between the Ku Klux Klan on one hand and a few noisy Negro activists on the other, the vast majority of South Carolinians have gone quietly about the business of living in peace with their neighbors. Even in the potentially emotional field of politics, the spirit of good citizenship has overshadowed the emotionalism of racism.

All that may be in for a change if we continue to entertain such professional racists in reverse as Martin Luther King. Significant in his Sunday speech at Kingstree was his bid for bloc-voting by South Carolina Negroes.

He made it clear that he is more concerned with color than competence in the election of office-holders. He is more concerned with electing the black man than the best man.

Obviously, he has not learned that such blatant appeals for Negro solidarity will simply consolidate the white people into an opposing bloc. The lesson of the Alabama primary apparently has not been learned either by King or by those who invited him into South Carolina.

More distressing than King's appearance, however, was the presence on the platform with him of several South Carolinians (native or adopted) who ostensibly have been working for the betterment of what they term "human relations."

If they think Martin Luther King and his questionable associates can improve the relationship between white and black South Carolinians, they are even further removed from reality than we thought.

On May 7, 1966, a confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Martin Luther King, Jr., President of the SCLC, Clarence
Jones and Stanley Levison, were in conference on that date.
The following is in essence what transpired during their conference:

First of the matters discussed was the results of the elections held in Alabama on May 3, 1966. King, Jones and Levison agreed that Jose Williams (Director of SCLC's Special Project) should not have been permitted to select the Negro candidates who made the races in Alabama.

They said they would have picked a different slate altogether.

Levison suggested that King write an article in a national magazine analyzing the Alabama vote. He said such an article was needed, since King's statements on the results of the election had not received much publicity in the press.

This document contains neither recommendations

Levison said he would try to get an article in Harper's", Atlantic' or the "Saturday Evening Post", but if unable to do so, he was confident he could get one in the magazine section of The New York Times".

Levison then suggested that he and Jones get together with King for several hours whereby they could exchange ideas on the article. King said if such a meeting took place, it would have to be in Chicago since he would return to that city on Tuesday (May 10, 1966). It was then agreed that Levison and Jones would meet with King on Thursday, (May 12, 1966) in Chicago. The time set for their meeting is between 10:00 and 11:00 a.m.

The next item discussed was the selection of an Executive Director for the SCLC. In that regard, Levison said he had tried to reach one George Wiley and would continue his efforts to reach him.

On May 9, 1966, a confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Stanley Levison and Clarence Jones were in contact on that date regarding their trip to Chicago. Levison said he planned to leave on Wednesday night and wanted to know if Jones would not go with him rather than wait until Thursday morning. Jones said he would have to wait until May 10, 1966, before he could give Levison an answer.

On May 6, 1966, the above information was furnished to the Williamsburg County Sheriff's Office, Kingstree, South Carolina, Kingstree S. C. Police Department, South Carolina Law Enforcement Division, 111st Intelligence Group, Secret Service, and United States Attorney, all Columbia, South Carolina.

A characterization of United Klans of America, Inc., rights of the Ku Klux Klan, UKA, KKKKK, is attached hereto.

UNITED KLANS OF AMERICA, INC.
KNIGHTS OF THE KU KLUX KLAN (UKA)

Records of Superior Court of Fulton County, Georgia, show that this Klan organization was granted a corporation charter on February 21, 1961, at Atlanta, Georgia, under the name United Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of America, Inc.

A source advised on February 27, 1961, that United Klans was formed as a result of a split in U. S. Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc. According to the source, the split resulted from a leadership dispute and United Klans has the same aims and objectives as the parent group. These are the promotion of Americanism, white supremacy and segregation of the races.

The first source and a second source advised in July 1961, that United Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of America, Inc., merged with Alabama Knights, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. The merged organization established headquarters in Suite 401, The Alston Building, Tuscaloosa, Alabama. The organization is directed by ROBERT SHELTON, Imperial Wizard, and is the dominant Klan group in the South with units in several southern states.

On August 14, 1961, the second source advised that the organization formerly known as United Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of America, Inc., would be known in the future as United Klans of America, Inc., Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. The second source said the name was changed by a resolution adopted at the National Klonvocation held July 8, 1961, at Indian Springs, Georgia.

Second source advised that at a meeting at Prattville, Alabama, on October 22, 1961, a majority of the Klaverns of the U. S. Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, merged with the United Klans of America, Inc., Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

RE SCHEDULED APPEARANCE OF MARTIN LUTHER KING

[REDACTED] advised that Rev. MARTIN LUTHER KING, President, SCLC, Atlanta, Georgia, arrived at the Edenton Airport at 7:54 p.m. that date by chartered airplane. He proceeded directly to the National Guard Armory at Edenton where a group in excess of 2000 persons awaited him. Several persons spoke at the gathering including DAVID COLTRANE, Chairman, N. C. State Good Neighbor Council, Raleigh, North Carolina; Rev. F. L. LaGARDE, SCLC Field Director, Edenton, North Carolina; and GOLDEN X. FRINKS, Field Secretary of SCLC, Edenton. Rev. ANDREW YOUNG, Atlanta, Georgia, introduced Rev. MARTIN LUTHER KING as the main speaker. b7(D)

[REDACTED] said that in his speech KING made the statement that Rev. LaGARDE had accepted a church in Newark, New Jersey and that Rev. KING had appointed Rev. LaGARDE as New Jersey State Director of the SCLC.

Rev. KING left the Edenton Armory at 10:06 p.m. and left the Edenton Airport by chartered plane reportedly for Atlanta, Georgia, at 10:38 p.m.

[REDACTED] said that Rev. JAMES W. COLE, Grand Wizard, North Carolina Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, a characterization of which is attached as an appendix to this memorandum, Kinston, North Carolina, with about 10 other men appeared at the Edenton Court House about 6:15 p.m., May 8, 1966. [REDACTED] advised he told COLE he could not hold a rally without a permit and that COLE told him he was going to have a rally anyway at 6:30 p.m.; however, at 6:31 p.m. COLE and his group left the court house and COLE later appeared at [REDACTED] office and stated he and his group were leaving town. b7(C)

There were no incidents at the gathering for Rev. MARTIN LUTHER KING or the COLE klan rally

RE SCHEDULED APPEARANCE OF MARTIN LUTHER KING

 ^{b7(c)} advised that members of the North Carolina State Highway Patrol and North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation assisted in handling the arrival and departure of Rev. KING.

KNIGHTS OF THE KU KLUX KLAN
Also Known As
North Carolina Knights of the Ku Klux Klan

On August 10, 1961, a source advised the North Carolina Knights of the Ku Klux Klan was organized by Reverend JAMES W. COLE in 1957.

The objective of this organization was to prevent integration, particularly in the schools, and although the organization denounced violence, members were encouraged to carry guns to the meetings by leaders. It was felt that the members would not hesitate to resort to violence if they were encouraged to do so by the leader.

The organization became defunct in 1959 following the incarceration of Reverend COLE in the North Carolina Prison System for inciting a riot at Maxton, North Carolina, in January, 1958. In early 1960, the organization began attempts to reactivate under the leadership of Reverend GEORGE DORSETT, who only acted in this capacity for a short time.

The only remaining active group in this organization is located at Salisbury, North Carolina, and in June, 1961, they merged into the United Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of America, Inc.

SUBJECT MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.
SECURITY MATTER - C

As you are aware, we have obtained considerable information identifying Martin Luther King as b7(c) however, for public consumption, King endeavors to create the image of a substantial member of the clergy and a faithful and devoted husband and father.

In this regard, the New York office made available a tape of an interview by Hugh Downs of Martin Luther King on the NBC "Today" show which took place on 4/8/66. Excerpts of this interview are set out below which indicate his hypocritical attempts to further his public image as a respected member of the clergy.

REC 8 111-10671-2521
In answer to a question by Downs about loose sex relations and problems of the youth and what King thought the clergy could do about this, King responded in part: "Well, I think the clergy and the church should plunge right into this problem and deal with it, in what I consider an intelligent moral manner. In the past, too often the church has taken a kind of prohibitive attitude on the whole question of sex, a hush-hush attitude, rather than trying to honestly discuss sex and deal with the problems surrounding it. I think the only answer is for the church through its channels of religious education and other methods to bring this issue out into the open and reaffirm once more that what God creates is good and that it must be used properly and not abused. I think it is also necessary to bring out at this point that sex is basically sacred when it is properly used, and that marriage is man's greatest prerogative in the sense that it is through and in marriage that God gives man the opportunity to aid him in his creative activity. Therefore, (sex must never be abused in the loose sense that it is often abused in the modern world.)"

The complete transcript of the interview of King by Downs is attached.

NBC "TODAY" SHOW, APRIL 13, 1966

Hugh Downs: Dr. King, in view of the way that so many clergyman and other religious people have taken part in the civil rights and other movements, do you think that this ...that the churches and clergy are reasserting the moral responsibility, the moral leadership in a nation that is considered largely materialistic in outlook?

Dr. King: Yes, I definitely feel that the church is gaining new life on this question in reasserting moral leadership. I have thought all along that the church being the moral guardian of the community had to take a basic forthright stand on the issue of civil rights. Naturally, there has been moments when I have been disappointed with the stand of the church, but I think in the last few years the church has been amazingly relevant on this issue and this has been most encouraging.

Hugh Downs: Do you think this means the commitment on the part of the clergy to eradicate the evil in inequality throughout the world?

Dr. King: I think it does, I must make a distinction here between what I see on the one hand as basic creative stands on the part of the church in general, church bodies, and the stand on the part of individual congregations are still a gulf between church bodies taking a stand on this issue, and many church local congregations, many of them still all too slow. But I think the major denominations within Protestantism, and certainly the Roman Catholic Church, and the Jewish Synagogues generally are committed to take a greater stand on all of the social evils that face our days.

ENCLOSURE

Hugh Downs: How far does the responsibility of the clergy go in matters of both domestic and international affairs of the nation?

Dr. King: Well I think it goes all the way. I see the church as a conscience of the community, the conscience of the nation, the conscience of the state, and consequently, the church must be involved in all of the vital issues of the day, whether it's in the areas of civil rights, whether it's dealing with the whole question of war and peace. I think the church has in many instances been all too silent on the issue of war. I think it goes into the area of dealing with the economic problems that people face not only in our nation, but all over the world. Because poverty is still a great reality in our world today and I think the church has to address itself to all of these contemporary problems.

Hugh Downs: I want to ask you in a moment about poverty and about war and peace, but right now I would like your opinion on whether you think the civil rights movement would have gotten as far as it has to date without the active participation of the clergy?

Dr. King: No I really don't think so, I feel that the Negro himself must initiate many moves to end the long night of oppression, segregation and discrimination, but I don't think the problem itself can be totally solved until there is a kind of grand alliance of what I call the coalition of conscience working together and the Negro cannot solve this problem by himself. He is ten per cent of the population. He needs allies over and over again in the white community, and I think we've definitely gotten further with this kind of cooperation from the church.

Hugh Downs: When it comes to issues of war and peace, how far do you think a clergyman should go in the matter of asserting leadership? I have in mind particularly now the conflict in Vietnam. What can the clergyman do? What should he do?

Dr. King: I think the clergyman first must in his messages and through his congregation seek to get to the ideation of roots of war, so to speak, and seek to take a general stand against war itself. There have been too many instances where individual clergyman and the church in general gave a kind of moral sanction to war as if it was a holy venture, and it is my strong feeling that we have got to make it clear that war itself is the enemy of mankind, and as President Kennedy said, "Unless we put an end to war, war will put an end to mankind." Along with this, I think we got to deal with specific wars and speak to the nation and the world honestly about them, and this is why I am very happy that the National Council of Churches for instance, Pope Paul and many of the Jewish rabbis of the country, have come out in very vocal and forthright terms are calling for a negotiated settlement in this situation, calling for the recognition of Red China in order to ease tensions in South-east Asia, calling for cessation of the bombings in the north, and other things that are vitally necessary I think to bring about peace in that very turbulent situation.

Hugh Downs: The population explosion probably hits hardest at the poor. To what extent do you think the Government should finance birth control?

Dr. King: I think the time has come that this must be done on levels much larger than private agencies can reach. I think that birth control is now a necessity not only in our nation, but all over the world, particularly, in the larger nations like China and India, in many nations in Asia and Africa and all over South America, and I think that if it is to be dealt with, it must be on a level that really grapples with the enormity of the problem and this means that the Government would have to be involved. This means that more and more of the United Nations will have to deal with this problem because the population explosion is the (illegible) greater threat to mankind as the problem of war, so that it has to have a planned structured methods that work to deal with it.

Hugh Downs: After some of the evils that hit young people now, the loose sex relations and problems of the quite young and apparently the age is getting younger, bodily, what do you think the clergy can and should do about this?

Dr. King: Well, I think the clergy and the church should plunge right into this problem and deal with it, in what I consider an intelligent moral manner. In the past, too often the church has taken a kind of prohibitive attitude on the whole question of sex, a hush-hush attitude, rather than trying to honestly discuss sex and deal with the problems surrounding it I think the only answer is for the church through its channels of religious education and other methods to bring this issue out into the open, and reaffirm once more that what God creates is good and that it must be used properly and not abused. I think it is also necessary to bring out at this point that sex is basically sacred when it is properly used and that marriage is man's greatest prerogative in the sense that it is through and in marriage that God gives man the opportunity to aid him in his creative activity. Therefore, sex must never be abused in the loose sense that it is often abused in the modern world. I think the other thing that is necessary to say here is that it is necessary to move to the causal basis of sexual promiscuity, the deep anxieties and frustration and confusion of modern life which lead to the abuses, and the church must not only work on the level of condemnation, but it must seek to get at the causal basis and work to remove these causes and deal with the psychological problems that bring the looseness into being, rather than making a general condemnation and not be concerned about the causal basis.

Hugh Downs: There is a lot of discussion in magazines and among theologians of a concept that says God is dead. What would be your answer to people who say God is dead?

Dr. King: Well, naturally in a kind of general sense I cannot go along with the idea God is dead. I am a theorist, and I believe firmly in the reality and the existence of God. I don't think there is anyway to prove this through some metaphysical philosophical argument. In other words, I think there are intimations of God in nature and history rather than any positive proofs. I think this answer comes through revelation and through real experience. On the other hand, I welcome this argument about God is dead to a degree, because I think it will cause many people to re-evaluate their conceptions of God. I do feel that many people have had their small conceptions of God. They have seen God as little more than an anthropological being who walks in the Garden of Eden in the cool of the evening, and they have seen God in a very narrow tribal context, and this argument, this debate within theological circles, I feel, will do a great deal to cause many people to realize that certain conceptions of God are dead and they need to be dead and the other thing is that it is important for me to say at this point is that I feel that there is a greater and more dangerous type of atheism that we must be concerned about than the argument about God is dead. That's theoretical atheism to a degree. But I'm concerned about practical atheism, and that is living as if there is no God, but it is my conviction that anyone who feels that life has meaning, and that there are value structures in the universe, and anyone who has an ultimate concern believes in God. The only atheist to my mind is the person who says that there are no values in the universe, and I do find people living as if there is no God, as if there are no values and I'm more concerned about this kind of practical atheism than I'm concerned about the theoretical atheism that will come and go. This is not a new idea, ever since the days of nature there has been discussion of the idea of God being dead and certainly many many instances, the name of God has appeared in the obituary column of philosophical journals and ideas of our world, but in spite of this, God the great reality, the principal of concretion that created force for good in the universe always ends up breathing again.

Hugh Downs: Thank you, Dr. King.

set forth administratively for the Bureau's information:

JONES asked if FISHMAN had any ideas for the statement (on Vietnam) remarking that FISHMAN met with (Senator) WAYNE MORSE whereas he, JONES, had not. JONES then asked FISHMAN what is the most crucial element the peace movement should focus attention on or what is the crucial element that would demonstrate our country's willingness to negotiate.

FISHMAN replied that when ARTHUR GOLDBERG was appointed to the UN, he asked MORSE to see him. MORSE did and GOLDBERG said he was very upset because their mutual friend, ERNEST GRUENING (Senator from Alaska), who had been one of GOLDBERG's life-long friends, had told GOLDBERG that he had betrayed the principles that he has stood for.

FISHMAN indicated that GOLDBERG asked MORSE if he believed this. FISHMAN continued that MORSE replied that "we" asked GOLDBERG to get a commitment from the President, which GOLDBERG said he would get before he took the job, but that he went ahead and took the job without getting this commitment. FISHMAN said this commitment was that GOLDBERG would be authorized to put the Vietnam issue before the Security Council (of the UN) and abide by whatever they did with it. FISHMAN added that all GOLDBERG was able to get from the President was that he could negotiate for that purpose but was not authorized to do it.

FISHMAN said that if JONES asked him what "we" can do today, in one sentence, that would further the cause of peace, which we have not done, it is for the President to issue a statement, without any qualifications, that the U.S. will abide by the results of a free election (in Vietnam) no matter what the outcome is.

The SANFORD GOTTLIEB mentioned in this letterhead memorandum is a subject of the WFO.

On May 11, 1966, a confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that on that date, Clarence Jones commented that he was going to Chicago on May 12, 1966, to see Dr. Martin Luther King at King's request. Jones stated that he is going to work on a draft of a statement which he has to get to Sanford Gottlieb for the March on Washington on Sunday (the Voters March on Washington, May 15, 1966, to protest the war in Vietnam, sponsored by the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy). He explained that "they" had asked Dr. King to attend, but that King would be unable to do so. He added that the next best thing is to get a lengthy statement from him (King) and that this is one of the principal reasons for his going to Chicago.

Sanford Gottlieb has been the Political Action Director of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy.

Enclosed for the Bureau and Atlanta are two (2) copies each of transcripts of two of the regular Sunday sermonettes currently being presented by KING over Chicago WAAF-AM. As the enclosed notes, the broadcasts are jointly sponsored by the Seaway National Bank, 8555 South Cottage Grove Avenue, and the Joe Louis Milk Company of Chicago. ILU
 The verbatim transcripts concern those broadcasts made on 4/10/66 and 4/17/66, respectively, and as a review would indicate, the broadcasts contain no information of a controversial nature and are predominantly religious in content.

The broadcast made by KING of 4/24/66, 5/1/66 and 5/8/66 have been monitored and are similar in content and direction to those enclosed. The theme of the 5/8/66 broadcast was "I say unto you, love your enemies, bless them that curse you . . ."; that of 5/1/66 was "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do," and that of the broadcast of 4/24/66 concerned the ability and power of God to subdue the powers of evil.

No criticism or reference to the FBI was made in the course of any of these broadcasts and no direct reference was made to activities such as demonstrations or specific civil rights activities as such. In view of this, Chicago will continue to monitor these broadcasts and in the event any are found to contain pertinent data of interest to the Bureau, the Bureau and Atlanta will be promptly advised. UACB, no additional such transcripts as are enclosed will be provided the Bureau or Atlanta.

"Sunday With MARTIN LUTHER KING"
WAAF-AM, Sunday April 10, 1966
10:00 a.m. to 10:15 a.m.

Sponsored by Seaway National Bank and Joe Louis Milk Company.

One of the great passages of the Old Testament is found in the following words from the Book of Exodus, "And Israel saw the Egyptians dead upon the seashore". Is anything more obvious than the presence of evil in the universe.

Evil is stark, grim and colossally real. Throughout its pages, a Bible affirms a reality of evil in unmistakable terms. Within the wide arena of life, we see evil in all of its ugly dimensions. We see it expressed in tragic lust and inordinate selfishness. We see it in high places where men are willing to sacrifice truth on the altars of their self-interest. We see it in the discriminatory actions of racial majorities oppressing minority groups. We see it in imperialistic nations crushing other people with battering rams of social injustice. We see it clothed in the garments of calamitous death-dealing wars which leave men and nations morally and physically bankrupt.

In a sense, the history of man is the story of the struggle between good and evil. All the great religions have recognized a tension at the very core of the universe. Traditional Judaism and Christianity see this as the conflict between God and Satan realizing that in the upward thrust of goodness that is the downward fall of evil. Christianity clearly affirms, however, that in the long struggle between good and evil, good eventually will emerge as victor.

Evil is ultimately doomed by the powerful inexorable forces of good. Good Friday's sad urge must give way to the triumphant music of Easter. Caesar may occupy a palace and Christ a cross, but one day that same Christ will rise up and spread history into A.D. and B.C. so that even the reign of Caesar must be dated by his name. Long ago, Biblical religion recognized what William Cullen Bryant later saw aptly affirmed, "Truth crushed to earth will rise again". The graphic example of this truth is found in the early history of the Hebrew people when the children of Israel were held under the gripping yoke of Egyptian slavery.

Egypt symbolized evil in the form of humiliating oppression, ungodly exploitation and crushing domination. On the other hand, the Israelites symbolized goodness in the form of devotion and dedication to the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Egypt's struggle to maintain her depressive yoke, Israel's struggle to gain freedom, Pharaoh stubbornly refused to respond to the cry of Moses even when plague after plague threatened his domain. This tells us something about evil that we should never forget; namely, that evil is recalcitrant and determined, never voluntarily relinquishes its hold. That is a checkpoint in the universe. Evil cannot permanently organize itself, so after the long and trying struggle the Israelites, through the providence of God, crossed the Red Sea. Like their God, that never surrenders, the Egyptians, in a desperate attempt to prevent the Israelites from escaping, had the armies go in the Red Sea behind them. As soon as the Egyptians got into the dried-up sea, the parted waters swept back upon them and the turbulence and momentum of the tidal waves soon drowned all of them. When the Israelites looked back, all they could see was here and there a poor drowned body beaten upon the seashore.

This marked the end of a frightful period in the Israelites history. It was a joyous daybreak that would come to end the long night of their captivity. The death of the Egyptians upon the seashore is a vivid reminder that something in the very nature of the universe assists goodness and its perennial struggle with evil. Undoubtedly, it is that something that justifies James Russell Lowell in saying "Though the cause of evil prosper, yet is truth alone strong".

So goes a long struggle of the American Negro for freedom and justice. For 244 years, evil was embodied in the peculiar institution of chattel slavery by which the Negro was enslaved for the economic enrichment of the white slave master.

The dark-skinned bondsman was made a depersonalized cog in the vast plantation machine. This unjust, immoral and inhuman system represented a strange paradox in a nation founded upon the principle that all men are created equal. Then came the day Abraham Lincoln faced squarely the matter of slavery. Despite his vacillations, it was upon a sturdy moral foundation that Lincoln drafted the Emancipation Proclamation and the Presidential Executive Order which brought an end to chattel slavery.

The Negro was soon to discover that despite the Emancipation Proclamation, the Pharaohs of the South were determined to keep him in bondage. Although Lincoln's decree had brought the Negro nearer to the Red Sea, it had not secured his passage through the parted waters and the barrier thrown up by the Pharaohs was that of racial segregation, a new form of slavery disguised by certain niceties of complexity. In the great struggle of the past half century and more between the forces of justice against segregation and the forces of segregation, the Pharaohs have employed legal maneuvers, economic reprisals and even physical violence to hold the Negro in the Egypt of segregation. The past 12 years have shown that the efforts of the forces of evil have been to little avail. First had come the United States Supreme Court school case decision of 1954 which declared that State-compelled segregation was unconstitutional. That decision came as a great beacon light of hope to millions of disinherited people. Following soon in that decree's wake merged a mass non-violent direct action movement for civil rights. In the process, there shone forth a new Negro with a new sense of dignity and destiny, his profile etched in confidence and courage loudly proclaiming in song God is on our side as he marched against the fortresses of segregation and evil; armed with his powerful method of non-violent resistance, the new Negro electrified the world changing embedded customs and giving new meaning to the American dream of freedom. Thus, we can now look back and see the forces of segregation gradually dying on the seashore, America's race relations problems a farsome song, and gigantic mounting of opposition yet lie ahead but at least those aligned on the side of justice have left Egypt with patient and firm determination. I am confident these forces shall reach the promised land of freedom. And so God does not forget his children, he gives his faithfully interior resources to bear the burdens and tribulations of life; thus when we are in the darkness of some oppressive Egypt, we must remember that God will be a light into our path when the lamp of hope flickers and the candle of faith runs low. Let us recall that God will restore our souls giving up renewed vigor to carry on. If we maintain such faith, we will be sustained in our struggle to escape from the bondage of every evil Egypt when even in the darkest midnight such faith will be a light unto our meandering path.

SUNDAY WITH MARTIN LUTHER KING
April 17, 1966
10:00 - 10:15 a.m.
WAAF-AM

Centuries ago, the psalmist inquired of our Creator "What is man that Thou art mindful of him and the Son of Man that Thou doth care for Him?" The whole political, social and economic structure of society is largely determined by its answer to the Bible question of what is man. Although there is widespread agreement in asking the question, there is sharp disagreement in answering it. In this day and time, many persons think of man purely in materialistic terms, arguing that man is simply an animal, a tiny object within the vast confines of an ever changing organism called nature. Such materialistic conceptions often drive these people to the dark chambers of pessimism. They find themselves agreeing with the writer of yesterday who asserted that man is a cosmic accident, a disease on this planet not soon to be cured and agreeing with Jonathan Swift, who wrote man is a most pernicious little race of ominous vermin that nature has ever suffered to walk across the face of the earth.

Sharply contrasting the materialistic assessment of man is humanism's answer to the question what is man. Believing in neither God nor in the existence of any supernatural power, the humanist affirms that man is the highest form of being which has evolved in the natural universe and (inaudible) pessimism of materialism the humanist posits a glowing optimism exclaiming with Shakespeare's Hamlet "What a piece of work is man, how noble in reason, how infinite in faculty, informed and moving (inaudible) and admirable in apprehension how like a god in beauty, beauty of the world, the paragon of animals."

A synthesis between the extremes of pessimistic materialism and optimistic humanism represents a more realistic idea of the nature of man. Man is neither villain nor hero. He is a bit of both. The realist agrees with Carlisle that there are depths in man which go down to the lowest hell and heights which reach the highest heaven, for are not both heaven and hell made out of him, everlasting miracle and mystery that he is.

The Christian view recognizes man as a biological being having a physical body. That is, man is viewed as less than God. We do not think of God as a being having a body but rather as a being of pure spirit lifted above time and space. However, man is meshed in the limitations of time and space. Since God made man there is nothing essentially wrong with his physical nature. Man's body is not inherently evil. Christianity rightfully maintains that it is the will and not the body that is the well spring of evil. The body is both sacred and significant in Christian thought. Christians then have legitimate interest in man's physical and material well-being. When Jesus said that man cannot live by bread alone he did not imply that man can live without bread. As Christians we must think not only about mansions in the sky but also about the slums and ghettos that cripple the human soul, not merely about streets in heaven flowing with milk and honey but also about the millions of God's children in this world who go to bed hungry at night. In that connection, we in the mass, non-violent direct action civil rights movement have recently focused our spotlight of concern (inaudible) upon the plight of millions of American Negroes who are imprisoned within the confines of urban slums.

Yet our faith compels us to go beyond the point of viewing man merely as an animal. One of the tragic flaws of Marxism is the contention that man is merely a producing animal whose life is determined largely by economic forces. Such a materialistic view is belied by the mystery and magic of the human soul as evidenced for example in the literary genius of Shakespeare, the musical genius of Beethoven, the artistic genius of Michelangelo, the spiritual genius of Jesus of Nazareth.

This brings us to the salient truth in the Christian doctrine of man; namely, that man is a being of spirit who moves up the stairs of his concepts into a wonder world of thought. Conscience speaks to him and he is reminded of things divine. This is what the psalmist means when he says that man has been crowned with glory and honor. So we see man lives on two levels. He is in nature, yet above nature. He is in space and time, yet above them. This is what the Bible is referring to when it affirms that man is made in the image of God. An abiding expression of man's divine likeness and man's spiritual nature is his freedom. Man is man because he is free to deliberate, to make decisions and to choose between alternatives. He is distinguished from animals by his freedom to do evil or to do good and to walk the high road of beauty or tread the low road of ugly degeneracy.

Despite being made in the image of God, man has terribly scarred his divine aspect, for man is engulfed in sin. Modern man is tragically estranged from himself, his neighbors and his God. Man's sinfulness thinks with overstating depths and his collective life, as the theologian (inaudible) aptly points out in his book "Moral Man and Immoral Society," we see clear evidence of the immoral society in racial discrimination, economic exploitation, colonialism and war. It is apparent then that man is the sinner in need of God's forgiving grace. The parable Jesus told concerning the prodigal son lets us know that in spite of our estrangement man is made for reconciliation with the heavenly Father. Modern man has strayed to the far countries of secularism, materialism, sexuality and racial injustice. The journey has brought moral and spiritual famine in western civilization but it is not too late to return home. May we realize that we are made for that which is high, noble and good and that our true home is within the Father's will. Let us choose a road that leads to abundant life. The (inaudible) has well said "To every man Thou openeth a highway and a road and every man decideth the way his soul shall go." God grant that we will choose a highway and that everywhere and at all times we shall be known as men who are crowned with glory and honor.

Chicago, Illinois

A confidential source who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised the Chicago Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) on May 6, 1966, that Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., President, Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), had arrived in Chicago the previous evening at O'Hare Field via Eastern Airlines from Atlanta, at approximately 6:40 PM. Subsequently, during the evening of May 5, 1966, the source advised that King visited Fred Hubbard, currently hospitalized at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago.

APPROX.

Note that Fred D. Hubbard, age 36, running as an independent Democratic candidate for Congress in the First Congressional District, opposing the incumbent Congressman William Dawson, was shot by an unknown Negro male at approximately 3:00 AM, May 5, 1966, while at work in his campaign headquarters on Chicago's south side. Hubbard was wounded in the left shoulder and was subsequently hospitalized at Michael Reese.

In connection with this meeting, an article in the "Chicago Daily News", edition of May 5, 1966, reflected that Dr. King, before his departure from Atlanta for Chicago on that date, was quoted as having termed this shooting in Chicago as "very unfortunate." The article reflects that Hubbard, using a revolver which was maintained in his desk drawer here, exchanged shots with his assailant and in this connection, King stated that he did not believe that anyone involved in the civil rights movement should bear arms. King was quoted as stating, "We have very strong regulations -- rules. I should say -- on even the possession of a gun . . . (but) I wouldn't want to condemn him (Hubbard) on that position."

UNCLASSIFIED

King further stated that it was his understanding that Hubbard's main activity was not as a member, as such, of the non-violent movement and that there may have been personal circumstances that impelled Hubbard to buy a gun. King further was quoted as stating, "He has taken a very strong position on civil rights, as I understand it. Although I have not had the chance to meet him . . . I want to visit him and offer him my sympathy."

Further concerning this matter, an article in the "Chicago Sun-Times", a daily Chicago newspaper, edition of May 6, 1966, reflected that Dr. King had visited Fred Hubbard at Michael Reese Hospital, the previous evening, adding that this visit had been, in King's capacity both as a minister and as an officer of the civil rights movement.

King was quoted as having stated after this visit that Hubbard's spirits were high and that what had befallen him was one of the hazards of public life. He had stated, in effect, that one never knows when something like this might happen to anyone in the public spotlight. King made no comment on whether he felt this incident would assist Hubbard's campaign nor did he say whether he would endorse Hubbard or any other candidate for public office in this area.

The above source advised further on May 6, 1966, that King had spent the afternoon of this date in conference at the offices of the Chicago Urban League, 4500 South Michigan Avenue, and later that evening was to visit the Webb Recording Studios, 812 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, to record his regular Sunday radio program for Chicago, broadcast over Chicago station WAAF-AM.

The source continued that during the late evening hours of May 6, 1966, or the morning of May 7, 1966, King was to make an appearance before a group known as the Unitarian-Universalists for the Chicago Freedom Movement, this group a creation of the Chicago Area Council of Liberal Churches. This group was to meet at Palatine, Illinois, over the period of May 6-May 8, 1966.

[REDACTED] b7(D)
[REDACTED] advised the Chicago FBI Office on May 9, 1966, that King departed Chicago for Atlanta Saturday afternoon, May 7, 1966. There were no incidents or disorders connected with King's visit to Chicago during the above period.

The "Chicago Sun-Times", edition of May 9, 1966, made reference to a television appearance made on Sunday, May 8, 1966, by Reverend Andrew J. Young, described as a top aide of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. In his comments, directed in part toward current political developments in Chicago, Young stated that Dr. King would not support Negro comedian Dick Gregory in his bid for the office of Mayor of Chicago opposing Mayor Richard J. Daley in the forthcoming mayoral elections of 1967. Young had stated that it was not the practice of the SCLC to endorse political candidates for office and consequently, although Gregory was supported in his sincerity and devotion, he would not be supported as a candidate for office. In connection with such matters the SCLC would engage in voter registration and political education campaigns here, Young maintaining that the civil rights movement in Chicago will "so clearly define" the election issues by the end of this year that it would determine the "agenda of issues" for the campaign. Young stated that the SCLC was not in Chicago primarily for a political campaign, but that its non-violent movement would raise issues so dramatically that anyone in public office must respond to them.

Young was questioned on this program as to how long the SCLC planned to be in Chicago and he replied that "transportation being what it is today, I guess we're in Chicago more or less forever."

The "Chicago Tribune", a daily Chicago newspaper, edition of May 9, 1966, also contained an article concerning the appearance on Chicago television on May 8, 1966 of Reverend Young.

Young was reported as having stated that the full gamut of civil rights techniques would be employed in Chicago this summer, but a strong effort would be made to prevent violence. He was quoted as having stated, "This summer you'll see the full range of techniques for securing rights that we experimented with in the South, plus a couple of others you haven't seen yet. We hope there will be no violence. We want to organize those segments of society that might be violent into a disciplined, non-violent group."

May 9, 1966

RE: APPEARANCE OF MARTIN LUTHER KING
AT WILLIAMSBURG COUNTY VOTERS
LEAGUE RALLY, KINGSTREE, SOUTH
CAROLINA; May 8, 1966,
RACIAL MATTERS

On May 8, 1966, at 1:30 p.m. a motorcade of approximately 30 cars marked "KKKK and UKA, Inc." departed Hemingway, South Carolina, on Highway 261 in the direction of Kingstree, South Carolina en route to the La Mar, South Carolina, Klan rally. Approximately half of this motorcade entered Kingstree, South Carolina, where they joined another contingent of about 15 similarly marked cars which had been parked on Main Street at the entrance of town. They then proceeded through Kingstree, South Carolina, without incident.

On May 8, 1966, at 5:00 p.m. Martin Luther King arrived by chartered plane at Lake City, South Carolina, and he proceeded by car to Tomlinson High School ball field, Kingstree, South Carolina, where he spoke at a rally of an estimated 6,000 spectators. King concluded his speech at 6:00 p.m. and departed from Lake City, South Carolina, at 6:43 p.m., again by chartered airplane and no incidents occurred.

This confirms information furnished orally to Mr. Alexander Ross of the Civil Rights Division on 5/6/66.

UNITED KLANS OF AMERICA, INC.
KNIGHTS OF THE KU KLUX KLAN (UKA)

Records of Superior Court of Fulton County, Georgia, show that this Klan organization was granted a corporation charter on February 21, 1961, at Atlanta, Georgia, under the name United Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of America, Inc.

A source advised on February 27, 1961, that United Klans was formed as a result of a split in U. S. Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc. According to the source, the split resulted from a leadership dispute and United Klans has the same aims and objectives as the parent group. These are the promotion of Americanism, white supremacy and segregation of the races.

The first source and a second source advised in July 1961, that United Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of America, Inc., merged with Alabama Knights, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. The merged organization established headquarters in Suite 401, The Alston Building, Tuscaloosa, Alabama. The organization is directed by ROBERT SHELTON, Imperial Wizard, and is the dominant Klan group in the South with units in several southern states.

On August 14, 1961, the second source advised that the organization formerly known as United Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of America, Inc., would be known in the future as United Klans of America, Inc., Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. The second source said the name was changed by a resolution adopted at the National Klonvocation held July 8, 1961, at Indian Springs, Georgia.

Second source advised that at a meeting at Prattville, Alabama, on October 22, 1961, a majority of the Klaverns of the U. S. Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, merged with the United Klans of America, Inc., Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

HUBBARD, SIX ZERO ONE EAST THIRTYSECOND STREET, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, MAY FIVE INSTANT; ~~RACIAL~~ RACIAL MATTER"

CHICAGO NEWS MEDIA TODAY REFLECTED PRESS CONFERENCE HELD MICHAEL REESE HOSPITAL BY HUBBARD, HIS WIFE ARNETTE, ALDERMAN CHARLES CHEW, AND DICK GREGORY. HUBBARD STATED HE MIGHT POSSIBLY BE ABLE TO IDENTIFY THE MAN WHO SHOT HIM ALTHOUGH HE HAD NEVER SEEN HIM BEFORE. HE ADDED EVEN IN THE HEAT OF THIS KIND OF POLITICAL BATTLE HE WAS SURE OPPOSITION FORCES WOULD HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH A SHOOTING. HUBBARD SPECULATED GUNMAN MAY HAVE BEEN "A PSYCHO CASE." GREGORY REPORTEDLY LAUNCHED CAMPAIGN TO UNDERWRITE TEN THOUSAND DOLLAR REWARD FOR APPREHENSION OF GUNMAN, AND ASKED HUBBARD'S FRIENDS TO PUSH IT TO ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Re: Communist Infiltration of the Southern

Internal Security - C

On April 29, 1966, a confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Stanley Levison and Dora McDonald (Personal secretary to Martin Luther King, President of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, SCLC), were in contact on that date. McDonald said Martin Luther King had scheduled a meeting of certain key SCLC personnel (Structure Committee) for 10:00 AM, May 2, 1966, at the Parliament House, a motel near the SCLC Headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia, and therefore, wanted Levison to attend. (S)

Levison said he had talked with King about the meeting in question and planned to be in attendance. He said he would probably leave New York City on Sunday night (May 1, 1966). McDonald told Levison that she would make a reservation for him at the Parliament House. (S)

On May 1, 1966, the source furnished information which disclosed that Stanley Levison and Clarence Jones were in contact on that date. Jones was told of Levison's plans to leave New York City about 9:00 PM that night enroute to Atlanta, Georgia, to attend a meeting of the "Structure Committee" of the SCLC, scheduled for May 2, 1966. Levison said he would arrive in Atlanta at about 11:00 PM and would be staying at the Parliament House Motel. (S)

A confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised the Chicago Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) on April 26, 1966, that Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., President, Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), had arrived in Chicago at approximately 7:20 PM on that date from Atlanta, Georgia. No schedule of activities for King for the remainder of April 26, 1966, was available; however, the entire following day, April 27, 1966, was to be spent by King, his top aides, and Chicago SCLC staff workers in conferences and workshop sessions at a camp operated by the United Automobile Workers (UAW) near Ottawa, Illinois. The source presumed that discussions at this all-day affair were to center around the organization and implementation of King's Chicago Freedom Movement.

[REDACTED] advised that Chicago FBI Office on April 28, 1966, that King had departed Chicago, Illinois, at approximately 9:00 AM on this date, en route to Washington, D.C., where it was understood King was to "have a conference at the White House". No further details regarding such a conference were known to [REDACTED] b7(D)

While in the Chicago area, no incidents or disorders occurred as a result of King's presence.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

B. J. Fisher

REBUTTAL: by Reverend Donald V. Becker, Pastor of the First Immanuel Lutheran Church

TO: Standpoint editorial of April 8, 1966, Who Is Above The Law?

BROADCAST: Wednesday, April 13, 1966 - 6:25 to 6:30 p.m.

It is my opinion that the WBBM-TV editorial denouncing Dr. King's supra-legal action with respect to a Chicago slum building shows very little understanding of the dynamics of the slum. By this time our city and nation ought to know that Dr. King is not interested in being personally above the law. He is interested in calling attention to the many ways in which the poor are not protected by the law.

T. J. Fisher

In theory, when code violations are broken due to neglect by landlords, tenants may seek court action. In practice, they can't for several reasons. The poor have few resources to inform them if their legal rights as tenants. They have no money to initiate court action. Even if action should be taken, they have no real hope that the court will act favorably in their behalf. Landlords are given continuance after continuance in such cases, as any study of court records will show. The net effect is that tenants, particularly Negro tenants, have no power in our ghettoized city to escape crowded, sub-standard living conditions.

The WBBM-TV editorial seemed for a flicker of a moment to understand the point of Dr. King's action exactly when it said that calling attention to the miserable conditions of a building might help to get it fixed up more quickly. But then it went on to impugn the motives of the national and city organizations that are trying to dramatize the miserable conditions.

The editorial spoke of this action as a "whim" of Dr. King. This again is grossly inaccurate. This action was very carefully considered before it was used, in the hope that it might bring some motion to the stagnant surface of the Chicago Negro slums.

The Chicago viewing public should know, as an example of what might be done to help, that it is legal for tenants in New York to withhold rent from landlords who refuse to improve their buildings to certain minimum code standards.

If those who purport to represent white public opinion continue to call Dr. King irresponsible, be assured that there are many in the Negro community ready to suggest that white public opinion is so hopelessly prejudiced that his non-violent efforts will never succeed. This can only intensify the sense of helplessness which characterizes areas in our city no less than places such as Watts, Los Angeles.

My wife and I have lived in the Negro community for more than seven years. We suggest that there must be a much more thorough attempt on the part of all public opinion molders to get the facts straight and clear before commenting on an issue as important to our city as this one. Now is the time that viewers in white segregated areas should be challenged to take meaningful strides towards genuine equal opportunity, not encouraged in their dislike for anything Negro or Dr. Martin Luther King.

Dear Friend:

Ten years of progress in the South have resulted in fewer deaths than five days of violence in Los Angeles. The adherence to nonviolence by Southern Negroes has won major social and political victories with a minimum of bloodshed. Submerged by hopelessness, the frustrated victims of injustices in the North rioted as much against themselves as against their oppressors.

SNLC is faced with this challenge to nonviolence. Many Negro leaders are urgently calling us North. We must respond because our method of social action has never been systematically used there. The discontented can be given constructive direction for their anger through the techniques of nonviolent direct action that have rent fissures in the mighty monolith of Southern injustice.

However, our major work continues to be in the South. In this work we face hard opposition, terror and the menace of murder. (Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, now the nation's martyr, was an SNLC worker.) Today there are few dramatic headlines about civil rights and many people conclude that our work has diminished. The opposite is true. We are working harder than ever because some of our goals, sought for a century, are in sight. We have made the Negro vote in Alabama a significant factor. In an agonized reappraisal the State Democratic Party has removed white supremacy from its symbol, signaling recognition of a new day. More than this, if we can continue our work we will send new forward-looking, open-minded men to Congress, both Negro and white. Our fight for civil rights can raise the quality of Congress for the benefit of the whole nation.

We must fully utilize the national legislation we won in the Selma campaign to transform the blighted lives of the ordinary Negro. We must intensify the work in which we pioneered - voter registration. We must continue programs of community organization, political education and our unique projects of self-help literacy education. We must assist those who are being reborn as citizens to employ the rights of citizenship responsibly and effectively.

SNLC has the trained, dedicated veterans to continue these tasks. Although 70% of our staff of about 200 are subsistence workers who earn only $25 per week, our work - spread over hundreds of communities and thousands of miles - involves great expense.

about the day in which Negroes would take seats in the sacrosanct white legislature of Alabama. We have already created the conditions for electing an estimated 9 Negro representatives and 1 senator to the state legislature in the next election.

Earlier, SCLC had concentrated on Georgia in concert with other organizations, and ten Negro legislators were elected to the state legislature by the close of 1965. Democracy, long deferred in the South, is finally rooting itself there. Though the progress is painful and arduous it does justify the hopes and sacrifices that brought it into being.

ADMINISTRATION LAGGING

Although our progress is discernable and encouraging it is not yet enough. Far more achievement could have been recorded, particularly in the SCLC Alabama campaigns, had the Voting Act of 1965 been implemented with vigor. The Administration, in our judgement, is relying too heavily on voluntary compliance by Southern communities whose past and present practices warrant little confidence. Although the law empowers the government to appoint Federal registrars to facilitate registration, only 37 out of more than 500 eligible counties have received such registrars. In Alabama, merely 11 counties are covered - most in rural areas. The Federal government supplied registrars in only one large Alabama city up to January 20th. SCLC's daily mass marches in Birmingham forced Justice Department action and Federal Registrars were finally appointed.

The limited use of Federal registrars in merely 7% of counties covered by the law constitutes a tragic default in implementation. The efficacy of Federal registrars no longer is a question - they have demonstrated their worth in the rural areas they have been serving. Despite the tradition of intimidation in these communities, nearly 70% of eligible Negroes have registered, a figure exceeding the national average for white registration.

60 CANDIDATES IN HISTORIC CONTESTS

Despite all our handicaps, more than 60 Negroes for the first time in nearly a century will run for local and state offices in Alabama in the May primaries. They participated in a workshop recently conducted in Atlanta by SCLC, designed to acquaint the Negro political hopefuls with the duties of the elective positions they are seeking. A variety of experts and consultants in political science and related subjects tutored the political candidates in the fundamental responsibilities of various state and county positions to which they seek to be elected.

Each candidate literally risks his life in this electoral challenge, yet our nominees include young and old - family men with as many as 12 children - lifetime residents of their communities who never possessed the most elementary rights of citizens. They are prepared to confront and conquer terror, to work tirelessly for a decent existence. They, too, are America's heroes on battlefields set within the borders of our nation.

MEMO: To Our Friends

SUBJECT: Chicago Project

Three years ago when SCLC challenged Birmingham we said if but one defeat could be inflicted upon that colossus of segregation, tremors would be felt across the entire South. Birmingham and the segregated South met defeat not once but in many places and times. Today a traveller from the past would be bewildered by new aspects of many communities - The job is still far from finished, but it is well begun.

THE JOB AHEAD

Chicago is the colossus of the North. Its slums are malevolent, afflicting the lives of Negroes with unbearable burdens. If anywhere, it is in Chicago that the grapes of wrath are stored. Last summer - after Watts, SCLC organized a task force of its most gifted nonviolent organizers to move into Chicago at the invitation of virtually all the leading organizations there.

AN HISTORIC UNITY

In the months they have worked there with the host organization, the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations, an historic unity of Negro and white concerned groups has developed. To date 168 organizations are involved in a program to end the misery of the slums. In this great assembly are represented all civil rights groups; churches and synagogues; academic societies; trade unions and social agencies embracing all religions and races.

Together they have adopted a program to seek to bring tens of thousands of ghetto dwellers into a tenants' organization so that landlords and the city administration may be dealt with by combined, responsible and militant strength. Simultaneously, the substantial army of unemployed is to be organized so that the demand for jobs may relentlessly be pressed upon the State, City and Federal governments.

Dealing with another of the bleak aspects of slum life, a campaign will be developed to achieve both quality and integrated schools. All effective tools will be employed, from scholarly studies to flexible boycotts.

MEMO: To Our Friends

SUBJECT: SCLC Voter Registration

Approximately one year has passed since SCLC selected Selma, Alabama as the cornerstone of Southern injustice and applied nonviolent pressure to fissure its deeply rooted foundations. In President Johnson's words Selma became the Concord of 1965. By today Selma has almost as many Negro registered voters as white, and Sheriff Jim Clarke no longer commands an armed, mounted posse to beat Negroes. His posse is disbanded and his arrogance curbed. Today Jim Clarke meets in his office with Negroes whom he treats with respect as he contemplates the forthcoming elections in Selma which will select the next sheriff.

NEGRO REGISTRATION EXCEEDS WHITE

The events of last Spring have radiated far beyond Selma, however. For the first time since Reconstruction, Negro registration exceeds that of white in five counties adjacent to Selma. Bullock, Greene, Wilcox, Perry and Hale counties, all organized by SCLC, can now elect local officials in genuine democratic freedom. In the eighteen counties where we have made an intensive drive, 50% of the eligible Negro voters are now registered. From passage of the Voting Rights Act on August 9, 1965, to December, 177,443 Negroes have registered in the South. Of these, approximately 98,000 have been registered as a result of canvassing and voter registration drives of SCLC. Therefore, about 55% of the new registrants are due greatly to activity on the part of SCLC.

We have had a field staff of over 80 persons working in six states; Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia. This is exclusive of the 600 Northern volunteers and 400 local workers who participated in the SCLC-SCOPE summer project and who registered some 49,000 persons.

NEGRO LEGISLATORS POSSIBLE IN ALABAMA

When fifty thousand Americans, Negro and white, stood before the Alabama State Capitol at the end of the Selma to Montgomery march, we declared that we had come to bring

... of the nation requires the preparations must be extensive and precise. Workshops on nonviolence have been held with frequency to train local leaders for future tasks. No group in the community is excluded. One of our workshops consisted entirely of neighborhood youth gang leaders who participated with genuine interest in discussions and training in nonviolent methods. They quickly developed respect for our SCLC organizers who had battle credentials from Birmingham and Selma and who spoke a common language about police brutality, humiliation and deprivation, but who also spoke a new language about nonviolent resistance that wins battles without bloodshed.

WASHINGTON INTERVENES

Though the campaigns are still in formative stages, the movement of people to prepare for confrontation has generated pressures on Washington. The Health, Education and Welfare Department for the first time in history withheld Federal funds from the Chicago Board of Education because evidence of deliberate discriminatory practices existed. Although counter pressure effected the release of the funds for this year, the H. E. W. once again, in an unprecedented move, sent a staff of investigators into Chicago because it was dissatisfied with the explanations offered by the Board of Education. Thus the past freedom of local government to impose any kind of education on the Negro community is already circumscribed by Federal investigations and community organization.

EARLY DIVIDENDS

Some additional dividends of social action have already been realized in slum areas. An alarmed city administration recently piously proclaimed that everyone is entitled to decent housing. In a gesture to evidence concern, approximately 100 inspectors have been combing buildings for violations. The Welfare Department has discontinued rent payments to owners of some 40 buildings for failure to make repairs. We have welcomed these token efforts and encourage more. But Chicago Negroes, so long neglected, are not deluded by theatrics. They know their threat to organize and obtain political power forced these reluctant concessions. They are aiming far higher than for superficial token changes - they have their sights set on a new life.

I have moved into a typical slum apartment to be able to reach a maximum number of people where they work and live. My apartment is reached from broken sidewalks strewn with bottle fragments and other disagreeable debris. The unpainted wooden stairways are often used by derelicts who seek their darkness to drink and avoid the piercing winds of the winter nights.

The gloom is pervasive and depressing. The neighborhood has the ominous nickname "the Bloody 16th". In short, it is typical of the homes of hundreds of thousands of Negroes imprisoned in the malignant slums which we have made the target of our crusade.
